Three hours the quickest to St. Louis-Missouri Pacific railway.

The city of Aransas Harbor, Texas, is backed by the railroad influences, also the company to whom the congress of the United States granted the exclusive right of obtaining deep water over the bar at Arangas Pass. 28-14: Commencing Sunday, July 13,1850, the Missouri Pacific railway will run through sleeping cars from St. Louis via Pleasant Hill, Rich Hill, Fort Scott and Wichita to Geneseo and from thence to Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver. This change was made on account of a great many people from the east going to Colorado being desirons of going via Wichita. The train will stop here two hours, giving all a chance to view the "Peerless Princess" and still land passengers in Colorado same time as if they had gone via Kansas City. It also gives the citizens of Wichita aleeping car service from here to Colorado. Returning, it gives us through sleeping car service Wichita to St. Louis, and gives the Colorado people a chance to go east via Wichita. This change will undoubtedly be appreciated by the travelling public, and especially by the citizens of Wichita. If you are going east or west go via the popular new through route. When will people tern that they can't talk helpfully and a tertainingly about what they do not understand, and that they can't understand except through sym-pathy and liking! What pleasure in hearng people talk about their literary loves?" All the world loves a lover." But what is more insipid than an account of a literary firtation? If one is not to read from a sense of duty to the author or to rociety it remains to ask whether one is not to read from a sense of duty to one's self. No again. And many times No. In the first place such reading is not done with the understanding, but with the conscience. There floats above the pages of the unlucky volume a shim-mering, tantalizing vell of foreign interests and thenceby.

And then, one can't remember books read from duty. Ah, mute confession of the book mark or the left turned down! A small boy doesn't for et how far he has gone through the dinter-whether he has yet eaten pie or not, for instance-though. to be sure, he may felin forgetfulness, for reasons well known to himself. And in the same way, one who has read with an appetite knows well how far he has read. How often we hear the confession: "I have read that book, but forgotten all about it:" If there is added the statement, "and yet I liked it very much," you may respectfully and silently demur. For, if there is forgetfulness when interest and therefore attention is sroused, the sufferer manifests a weakness of mind suggestive of an asylum. No. Take my word for it, though it defy mythology: Memory and Love are sister Muses. - New York Ledger.

Carious Frenks of Steel. The finest grades of razors are so delicate that even the famous Damascus sword blades cannot equal them in texture. It is not generally known that the grain of a Swedish razor is so sensitive that its general direction is changed after a short service. When you buy a fine rapor the grain runs from the upper end of the outer point in a diagonal direction toward the handle. Constant strapping will twist the steel until the grain appears to be set straight up and down. Subsequent use will drag the grain outward from the edge, so that after steady use for several months the fibre of the steel occupies a position exactly the reverse of that which it did on the day of purchase.

The process also affects the temper of the blade, and when the grain sets from the lower outer point toward the back you have a razor which cannot be kept in condition, even by the most conscientious borber. But here's another curious freak that will take place in the same tool: Leave the rezor alone for a month or two, and when you take it up you will find that the grain has assumed its first position This operation can be repeated until the steel is worn through to the back.—St. Louis Republic.

Shaking Hands. It would seem that sixty years ago shaking hands "between persons of different sexes" was hardly proper, and that ten or twenty years earlier it was considered high ly indelicate. My authority is the following, copied from the law reports for 1828 Court of Arches, Nov. 19, 1828.—Divorcer Hamerton against Hamerton.—Sir John Nicholl, in giving judgment, said that conduct highly blamable and distressing to the feelings of a husband hed been proved but although thirty witnesses had been examined no indecent fumiliarities had been proved beyond a kiss. The shaking of hands when they met was a practice now so frequent between persons of different sexes, however opinions might differ as to its delicacy, that no unfavorable inference could be deduced thence.—Notes and

The Incubator Known to the Egyptians The artificial hatching of chickens is by most persons thought to be something new under the sun, and the result of the bio-logical investigations and discoveries made by the evolutionists. The fact is, as Consul General Cardwell, at Cairo, reports, the hatching of eggs by other than the natural process was known to the ancient Egyptians, and this process, handed down from father to son, leaves our scientific processes for the same purpose far in the rear. The extent of the business among the Egyp- WANTED-AN EXPERIENCED STENOGRAtians may be gathered from the consul general's statement that the even crop of marketable chickens is 15,000,000 each season.-New Orleans Picayune.

Remedies for Nervous Troubles. Musk, derived from two little sacs on the belly of the musk deer, is regarded as a most important remedy for nervous trou-bles. It would be more used were it not that is so costly. In old times, though be-lief in the remedy is no longer entertained, red ants were thought to be a powerful cure for bruises and pains in the limbs of all sorts. Sometimes they were boiled by the quantity in a muslin bag and applied to the parts affected; at other times a foot or hand efflicted was thrust into the ante hole and the insects were allowed to che upon the member in order that they might

The Autograph Bunter Foiled.

There is a certain young professional man who has a manis for securing auto-graphs and letters, if possible, of noted persons. He had been informed that a certain poet of world wide reputation, an American, never gave his autograph. But he made up his mind he was going to have it without asking for it. He wrote a busi ness like letter to the exclusive poet stat ing that he desired a sketch of his life for a work of a literary nature be was prepar ing, and asked the poet if he could inform the writer where a reliable sketch could be found. This, he thought, would be sure to bring at least a line or two from the famous writer. Imagine his chagrin, a day or two later, at receiving in a sealed envelope a printed biography, unaccompanied by even the scratch of a pen. To cap the climax, even the envelope was addressed by a typewriter.-Albany Argus.

When a wheel is in motion does the to nove faster than the buttom? Nine people out of ten would cry nonsense at the me wheel must, of necessity, it would seem, be moving forward at one and the same rate-i e, the speed at which the carriage is travel ing. Not so, however, as a little reflection would convince you. The top is moving in the direction of the wheel's motion of translation, while the bostom is moving it pposition to this motion. In other words be top is moving forward in the same di vection in which the carriage is progress ng, while the bottom is moving backwar. er in an apposite direction.
